crown Costa Rican hunt toucan water red eye touch

The children continue their canoe trip through a 1. Costa Rican national park with their teacher and their guide, Juan Luis. Suddenly they are seeing tree frogs everywhere. They see a 2. red eye tree frog, which is the most famous frog in the country. Then they see a strawberry poison dart frog, which poisons you if you 3. touch it. Their attention turns to a 4. toucan in the trees. These are unusual-looking birds with huge, brilliantly colored beaks. Soon they see an eyelash viper in a tree, hunting a lizard. It's a Jesus Lizard, which can walk on 5. water because it creates air bubbles between its toes. It also has a crest on its head that looks like a 6. crown. Kenth sees another interesting frog and suggests they go on a frog 7. hunt. The other students and Juan Luis agree.
